

Tuesday eve

Dear Uncle I am home again this evening. I have been writing several letters and am some tired but I will just say a few words more to let you know how wickedness yet prevails in our land. We have just heard of a man poisoning his wife. She had not been well for a long time He prescribed her medicine. The Stomach has been analyzed by the best Physicians & Professors of Chemistry, in Meadville. They pronounce it a gradual poison.
The man resides about eight miles north of us. He is now in jail awaiting his trial.

A man who resides at Evansburgh - a town 8 miles South of us killed a man with his kiddy jokes The man demanded entrance He was partially intoxicated kicked down the door, which was not very difficult to do when he received a blow which broke his skull

Neither of the men were respectable Then West of us, two Irish Catholics attacked a man and almost killed him

To say nothing of the horse thieves the world appears to be full of wickedness. The jail is almost full of Prisoners awaiting their trials

Not very intelligi-ble writing This, but please excuse
